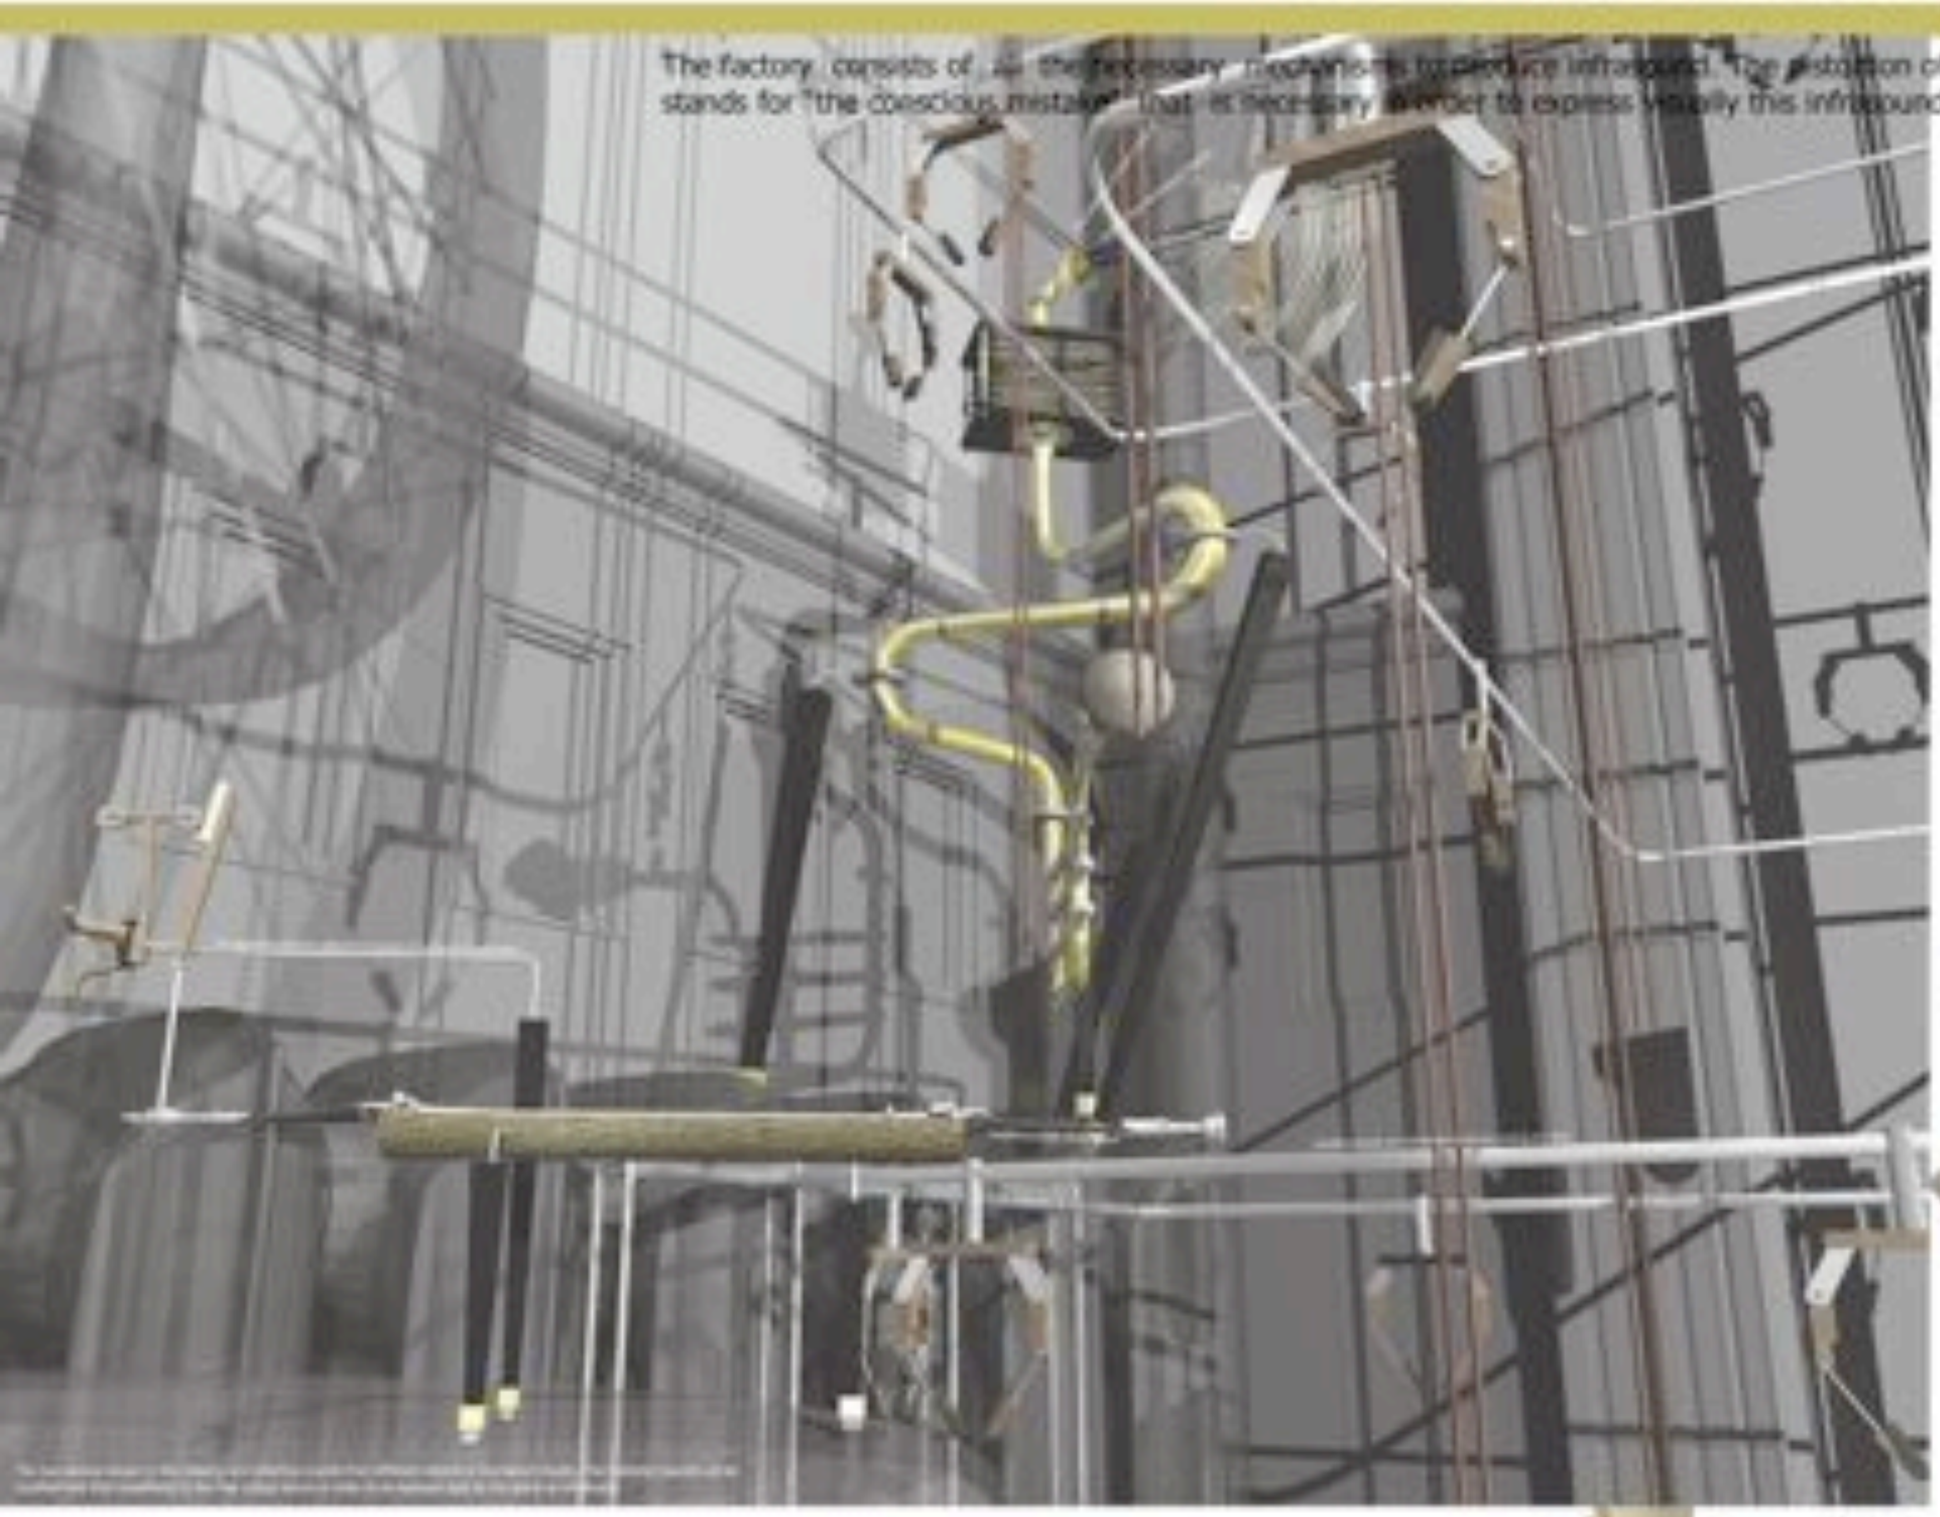
factory of inaudible sounds


The factory consists of all the necessary machines to produce infrasound. The violation of the expected rules of engineering science stands for "the conscious mistake" that is necessary in order to express visually this infrasound production.